

Joseph Carvalko, Adjunct Professor of Law, Science, Technology, Quinnipiac University, School of Law. Joseph is a patent lawyer representing inventors in biomedical engineering. He is member of the Community Bioethics Forum, Yale School of Medicine and a member of the Yale Technology and Ethics working group.

Joseph was a member of the editorial board for SciTech, ABA, Section on Science and Technology. He served as past Chairman of the Behavioral Sciences Committee of the ABA, Section on Science and Technology. Joseph was also a research associate in biomedical engineering, designing and programming cellular automata computers for A.I. cytological pattern recognition, and subsequently developing computers for telecommunications (holds 10 patents). Law, Science, and Technology (a course book), to be published by ABA Publications (2013), and recently published: The Techno-Human Shell-A Jump in the Evolutionary Gap, (Sunbury, 2013).

Joseph holds a Bachelor Science Electrical Engineering and Master Fine Arts writing, both from Fairfield University; and Juris Doctor Law, from Quinnipiac University.