

Alan E. Singer is the James E. Holshouser Distinguished Professor of Ethics at Walker College of Business, Appalachian State University. Previously, he was the Aram Professor of Business Ethics at Gonzaga University and Reader in Strategic Management at the University of Canterbury, New Zealand. His latest book is Integrating Ethics & Strategy (World Scientific). Alan's academic background is in mathematics, psychology, and philosophy.

Alan worked in the private sector in London England in the 1970's. Since then has published many theoretical articles about strategy and ethics in business and management journals, such as the, Business Ethics Quarterly, Business Ethics: A European Review, Journal of Business Ethics, Strategic Management Journal, Omega, Human Systems Management, Systems Practice, Decision Sciences, Small Business Economics and many others.