

Molly Hartzog Storment is a PhD student in Communication, Rhetoric, and Digital Media, and an IGERT fellow in the Genetic Engineering and Society program at North Carolina State University. Her research interests include rhetoric of science and technology, public understanding of science, environmental communication, and history of biology.