

26th Annual National NALSA Moot Court Competition

Dear Friend of NNALSA,

The National Native American Law Student Association (NNALSA) is excited to announce that its 26th Annual NNALSA Moot Court Competition will be hosted by Arizona State University's Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law NALSA Chapter and Indian Legal Program. The competition will take place on March 2, 2018 through March 4, 2018 in Phoenix, Arizona.

NNALSA was founded in 1970 to support law students who are interested in the study of Federal Indian Law, Tribal Law, and traditional forms of governance. Each year, NNALSA holds a moot court competition for law students who have a passion for Indian law and litigation. This event attracts hundreds of law student competitors, professors, practitioners, and scholars. Law schools across the nation submit bids to host this prestigious event, and we are honored that this year's competition will be held in the Valley of the Sun!

Throughout the academic year, competition teams will conduct intensive legal research to write an appellate brief and prepare oral arguments. The ability to argue in front of a knowledgeable judicial panel affords the students an opportunity to further hone their advocacy and persuasive argument skills. In addition to oral argument rounds, this year's competition will include a CLE course, networking events, and an awards banquet featuring speakers from the Indian Law community and performances by artists representing local tribal nations. These events allow attendees both to engage and connect with the local Native and legal communities, and explore Downtown Phoenix.

The Annual NNALSA Moot Court Competition is the longest consecutively held moot court competition, and it would not be possible without the generous donations from businesses, organizations, and individuals who understand the importance of NNALSA's work. We strive to recognize the essential role of our donors by offering advertising space throughout our event.

We ask for your support and invite you to be part of this exciting event. By donating to the 26th Annual NNALSA Moot Court competition, you and your organization will be contributing to the future success of hundreds of future litigators in Indian law.
